Ciara Lawrence & Kyle Wallace Who Are we?

A national health campaign led by local people

mencap
The voice of learning disability

What is Treat me well about?

- Treat me well is a campaign to improve hospital care for people with a learning disability

3

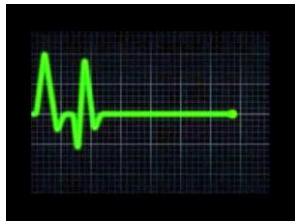
- It is a 3 year campaign

- It is a national campaign involving local campaigners all around the country

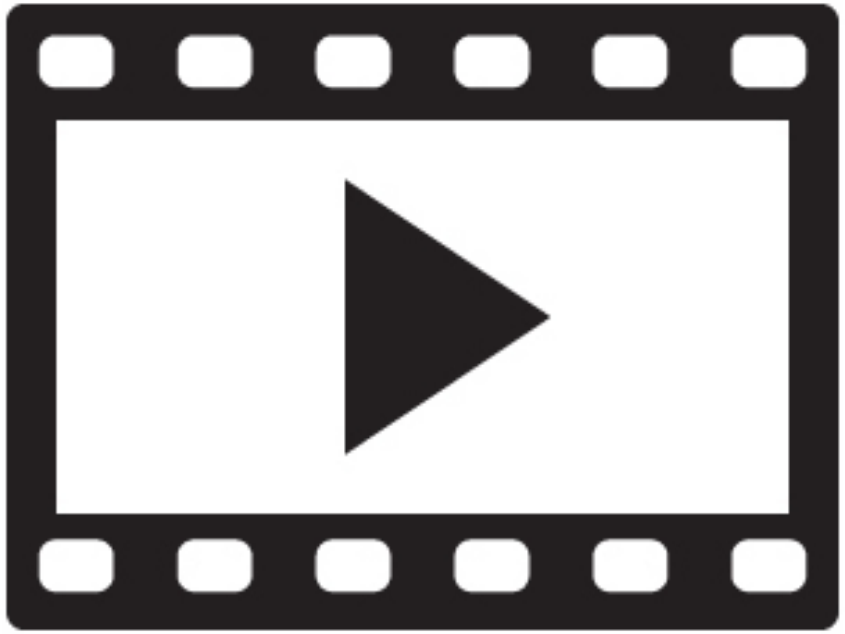
Why are we campaigning

- Reasonable adjustments are not being made in hospital: 1 in 4 health workers has had no training on learning disability

- Lots of people have said they felt ignored by staff at the hospital



- Some people are dying because they have not received the right care in hospital.



Treat Me Well

https://youtu.be/KF-JY1KL6m4

What is our campaign about?

We want to make sure people are getting reasonable adjustments when they go into hospital.

We want to change the attitudes of hospital staff.

VIDEO: What are reasonable adjustments in hospital?

https://youtu.be/IdCDaovPVj0

What we are doing…

Working with NHS bosses to train healthcare staff

We want learning disability awareness training for all staff.

Kyle Wallace – My work in Health care

mencap
The voice of learning disability

Ciara – my career and campaign work

Kyle Wallace – My hospital experiences

Ciara’s Lawrence – My health hospital experiences

mencap
The voice of learning disability

Treat me well Campaign Update on mandatory training for healthcare professionals

mencap
The voice of learning disability

Thank you for listening
Any questions?